A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT:

A VISION OF UNITY AND PROGRESS

John Lynch NFDC President

As I approach the conclusion of my term as President of the NFDC in March 2025, I am filled with gratitude for the collective achievements we’ve accomplished together. The past two years have been a period of significant milestones and unwavering commitment from all members, for which I am sincerely thankful.

One of the defining achievements of my presidency has been the successful relocation to our new offices at Resurgam House in Hemel Hempstead. This move, marked by MP Sir Mike Penning cutting the ribbon—just as he did for the previous office in 2009—symbolises not only our growth but a renewed era for the NFDC. The functional facility now serves as a hub for our operations, member events, and training programmes, laying the foundation for future progress.

A key highlight of my presidency was appointing Duncan Rudall as our CEO. His leadership has brought transformative changes, driving innovation and strengthening our collective voice within the industry. Equally significant was the appointment of Lesley Ransome as our CFO, whose dedication and expertise were instrumental in organising the two fantastic conventions in Ireland and Rome. These events brought new and seasoned members closer together, fostering engagement and reinforcing the strong sense of community that is the backbone of the NFDC.

I am particularly proud of the work we have accomplished with the ex-offender/prison programme “Breaking Down Barriers”. This initiative has been pivotal in fostering social responsibility by helping individuals reintegrate into the workforce with valuable skills. Such programmes not only challenge negative perceptions but also help address the industry’s skilled worker shortage, making a tangible impact on lives and communities.

A major milestone during my term has been the comprehensive update to the NFDC’s Memorandum and Articles of Association, which had not been revised for nearly 20 years. This modernised framework is essential for ensuring that the Federation remains adaptable and effective in addressing industry needs.

Since the launch of the NFDC Talks in 2023, this initiative has become a valuable platform for raising industry awareness about demolition as a highly specialised and skilled vocation. Due to its success and positive reception, we repeated the NFDC Talks in 2024 and will continue this impactful series in 2025 and beyond. Alongside this, we have also participated in key industry initiatives, such as the Excel meeting in Scotland, which underscored the importance of our influence in industry procurement practices.

Bringing regions together has been at the heart of my vision, fostering a unified, forward-thinking Federation. These efforts have ensured that the NFDC remains resilient, engaged, and ready to tackle new challenges.

I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to our hard-working and dedicated staff at our Hemel Hempstead offices; working alongside them has truly been a privilege. Their commitment and enthusiasm have been instrumental in supporting our mission and serving our members. I am equally grateful to each of our members for their trust, collaboration, and dedication. Together, I am confident that we will continue to lead the industry with excellence and integrity.

CEO'S REFLECTION:

BUILDING A STRONGER FUTURE TOGETHER

"I want our members to feel proud of their commitment to raising safety standards and sustainability across NFDC and NDTG, both on-site and in the classroom."

Duncan Rudall NFDC CEO

Welcome to our 2025 yearbook. It's been another transformative year at the NFDC and NDTG, and I am deeply honoured to lead an organisation that constantly pushes the boundaries of excellence and safety. Firstly, my sincere thanks go to John Lynch, the NFDC's President, for his confidence in appointing me and his unwavering support. His leadership has been pivotal in steering the Federation toward new heights.

Over the past year, our focus has been on raising standards across both the NFDC and NDTG. Whether on-site or in the classroom, we've aimed to elevate safety practices, sustainability efforts, and the overall profile of the demolition industry. As members of the NFDC, you are not just part of an organisation—you are part of a community that believes in training and development, not merely as obligations but as a commitment to the future of our profession.

The introduction of the Building Safety Act brought new challenges and opportunities. It's put a renewed emphasis on the need for specialised training, and we are leading this charge by reinforcing its importance to our members. Our collaborative work with the NDTG is ensuring we're prepared to meet these legislative requirements head-on.

A key achievement for the NFDC this year has been the successful expansion of our NFDC Talks Intelligent Demolition Planning seminar series. These seminars, delivered in collaboration with the HSE and key industry stakeholders, have provided invaluable insights into the latest best practices, regulatory updates, and risk management strategies. By bringing together demolition contractors, principal contractors, and health and safety professionals, we have strengthened industry-wide collaboration and reinforced NFDC's leadership in promoting safe and compliant demolition practices. The positive response from attendees highlights the value of these initiatives, and we look forward to expanding them further in the coming year.

Sustainability remains a key priority, and it is encouraging to see the proactive steps taken by our members. However, it's essential to approach sustainability initiatives thoughtfully. For example, while the reuse of materials like steel has gained traction, we must consider the broader impact on safety and environmental integrity.

Our partnership with the European Demolition Association (EDA) and the National Demolition Association (NDA) in the US has fostered stronger ties and deeper collaboration across Europe and beyond. Our innovative initiatives and training models are expanding, increasing in members and setting a new benchmark for industry standards. These growing bonds are creating a positive ripple effect throughout the industry, reinforcing shared standards and enhancing connections on a global scale.

Looking ahead, our focus remains on reinforcing safety, sustainability, wellbeing, community and training within our industry. Together, the NFDC and NDTG are committed to leading by example, setting the standards for others to follow, and ensuring that the demolition industry thrives in a future that is both safe and sustainable.

Alan Turing
WW II Code-breaker and
Pioneer of Computer Science

As we move into 2025, this quote from Alan Turing reminds us that progress is often driven by those willing to challenge expectations, embrace change, and push boundaries. The demolition industry is no exception. It is built on the expertise, ingenuity, and determination of professionals who transform challenges into opportunities, dismantling the past to create the future.

Looking back on 2024, we've seen an industry that continues to evolve. Sustainability, safety, and innovation remain at the forefront, with the NFDC Members leading the way in adopting new technologies, improving best practices, and reinforcing the standards that make demolition a highly respected profession.

The NFDC Yearbook 2025 serves as a reflection on the past year's achievements, celebrating the progress made across the industry. It highlights the Federation's key initiatives, milestones, and contributions that have strengthened the sector, from advancements in training and safety to ongoing efforts in promoting best practices. This edition recognises the collective dedication of the NFDC Members and the continued commitment to excellence that defines the demolition profession.

One of the most exciting developments of the past year has been the rise of technology-driven demolition solutions. Robotics, AI-powered project planning, and enhanced recycling processes have allowed our sector to work more efficiently and sustainably than ever before. The NFDC Members have embraced these innovations, demonstrating that demolition is about more than just breaking down structures—it's about precision, responsibility, and progress.

Collaboration has also been a key theme, reinforcing the idea that demolition is stronger when we work together. Through training initiatives, knowledge-sharing, and advocacy efforts, the NFDC continues to ensure that its Members are equipped to meet the evolving demands of the industry. The Federation remains committed to raising standards, prioritising safety, and shaping the future of demolition in the UK and beyond.

Of course, none of this would be possible without the people behind the projects. To every NFDC Member, industry partner, and professional working tirelessly to uphold the highest standards—thank you. Your hard work, expertise, and dedication are what drive the industry forward.

As we look ahead to the opportunities and challenges of 2025, we need to continue to embrace innovation, champion sustainability, and lead with excellence. The future of demolition is built by those who dare to imagine the unimaginable—and I have no doubt that the NFDC Members will continue to do just that.

Wishing you all a successful and inspiring year ahead.

SAFETY

Advancing Safety Standards in Demolition.

In 2024, we made significant contributions to advancing safety across the demolition industry, reinforcing our commitment to protecting workers, improving standards, and fostering collaboration.

Shaping Industry Standards

This year, we played a pivotal role in contributing to the updated Health and Safety Executive (HSE) demolition guidance. Our members provided critical input, ensuring that the revised standards address key industry challenges, including reinforced autoclaved aerated concrete (RAAC). These updates have laid a foundation for improved safety protocols across the demolition sector. Additionally, we actively participated in the development of the HSE Structural Stability Guidance, further advancing safety standards within the industry.

Engaging Through NFDC Talks

Safety remained central in our NFDC Talks, with three events held in 2024 across London, Bristol, and Glasgow. These sessions provided valuable insights into industry practices and included presentations on emerging safety topics. By fostering open dialogue, we engaged demolition clients and contractors alike to work together on safety practices.

Celebrating Milestones and Collaboration

We proudly marked the 50th anniversary of the Health and Safety Act with an internal celebration honouring its enduring impact on workplace safety. Additionally, NFDC participated in the HSE Summit, contributing to a panel discussion that explored the future of health and safety.

Our commitment to collaboration extended to several influential institutions and initiatives. As active participants in the CSCS Alliance, Construction Leadership Council (CLC), and Plant Sector Representative Organisation (PSRO), we influenced discussions that will shape future safety standards. We also worked closely with the Asbestos Management Institute, the CPI Sector Plan, and the ICEC MCM Safety Environment Circle Economy, ensuring the latest safety insights and practices for members.

Driving Audits and Insights

In 2024, we revamped our membership audit form and process, integrating health and well-being assessments into our Site Audit for the first time. This year also marked the 20th anniversary of our site order scheme, highlighting our sustained commitment to rigorous safety evaluations.

Our participation in the World Demolition Summit enabled us to gather valuable insights, while feedback from the ESA poll informed us of industry practices. These contributions ensured our alignment with the latest safety guidelines, particularly around asbestos removal and waste management.

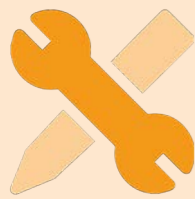

Looking Ahead

As a member of the PO Leaders Forum and part of initiatives like the GBC Resources Waste and CE Group, NFDC continues to lead the charge in enhancing safety. By fostering partnerships, influencing policies, and sharing expertise, we are shaping a safer future for the demolition industry.

Safety is not just a priority; it is our responsibility. Together, we will continue to uphold the highest standards and make the industry a safer place.

SKILLS & TRAINING

Our Commitment to Training and Workforce Development.

At the NFDC, investing in skills, training, and workforce development is at the core of our commitment to raising industry standards. In 2024, we took significant steps to improve industry qualifications, enhance safety training, and create new opportunities for employment and career progression.

Strengthening Industry Entry Standards

An important development this year, was the adjustment by CSCS Alliance and NFDC to reduce the CCDO (Green) Labourer Card validity down from five years to two years, ensuring a smoother transition in industry entry requirements. From February 2025, the CCDO Labourer Card will be valid for only two years, our priority remains to enhance workers' skills and encourage them to progress onto higher-level cards backed by practical NVQs; such as the CCDO Demolition Refurbishment Operative (DRO) card. To help facilitate this, we now accept online operative-level CITB & NOCN HS&E tests to help workers transition from CCDO Labourer to DRO. This change reflects our commitment to raising standards, promoting professional growth, and supporting a more knowledgeable and safety-conscious workforce.

NDTG Gains UKATA Accreditation

This year, the National Demolition Training Group (NDTG) achieved UKATA accreditation for its 'Asbestos Awareness' and 'Non-Licensed Asbestos Removal' courses, marking a significant milestone.

This accreditation also guarantees that NDTG trainers remain up-to-date with the latest industry practices, supported by UKATA's rigorous CPD requirements.

By combining expert-led instruction, top-tier training facilities, and recognised qualifications, the NDTG reinforces its commitment to empowering operatives with the knowledge and skills needed to safely and effectively handle asbestos, further enhancing safety standards within the demolition sector.

Investing in Expertise and Leadership

To further drive training quality, we ensured that key members of our leadership team gained advanced accreditation.

By undertaking training with ARCA (Asbestos Removal Contractors Association) deepening their understanding of asbestos management and enabling them to pass this expertise on to learners. By strengthening our own knowledge base, we are better positioned to support our members in maintaining the highest safety and compliance standards.

Engaging the Next Generation with Simulation Technology

As part of our commitment to inspiring the future workforce, the NFDC takes its state-of-the-art demolition simulator to student fairs and industry events, offering an immersive experience of the demolition world. This cutting-edge tool allows students and visitors to step into the operator's seat, gaining firsthand insight into the skills and precision required in the industry—all within a safe and controlled environment.

By bringing demolition to life in an interactive and engaging way, the NFDC continues to showcase the sector's exciting career opportunities, sparking interest and shaping the next generation of demolition professionals.

Expanding Career Opportunities

Through our partnership with CITB and support for the Employer Network Initiative, we are creating new pathways for contractors to access demolition training more easily. This initiative connects companies with funding and training providers, ensuring operatives can gain the qualifications needed to advance in the industry. By making training more accessible, the Employer Network strengthens workforce development, enhancing both competency and technical expertise across the sector.

Looking Forward

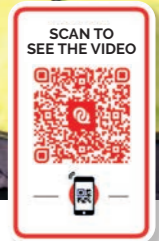

As we move into 2025, we remain committed to expanding our training initiatives, ensuring that industry professionals have access to the best qualifications, resources, and learning opportunities. By continuing to raise standards and invest in our workforce, we are shaping a safer, more skilled, and more resilient demolition industry for the future.

“From aligning qualifications and expanding training opportunities to embracing innovative tools like simulation technology, we've remained committed to equipping our workforce with the skills and safety measures needed to excel in their careers.”

WORLD'S BEST SELLING QUICK COUPLER

“IT'S A FANTASTIC EQUIPMENT TO HAVE”
says Paul Styles, Project manager for Urban Regen

The UK based demolition contractor Urban Regen has used OilQuick's automatic quick coupler system for a couple of years now and couldn't be more pleased with the solution.

– I think the name says it all. OilQuick is such a quick accessory to have. The biggest advantage is the continuation of the work. Earlier it could take half an hour to get out of the cab, knock pins out, take the pipes off and then connect everything again. With OilQuick there is no such stops when swapping attachments. You simply press the relevant buttons, and it all happens in the safety of the cab. It is just a fantastic equipment to have says Paul Styles, Project manager for Urban Regen.

SUSTAINABILITY

Committed to a Greener Industry.

At the NFDC, sustainability is not just a goal but an integral part of our mission. Reflecting on 2024, we are proud of the strides we have made to advance sustainable practices and shape a greener future for the demolition industry.

A Milestone in Waste Management

One of our most significant achievements this year was the Environmental Agency's declaration of amber waste wood as non-hazardous. This long-awaited decision has resolved a major concern for our industry, simplifying waste management processes and reducing the environmental impact of handling materials. It represents years of collaborative effort and demonstrates how industry advocacy can lead to meaningful change.

Driving Policy Change

We took an active role in influencing government policy by distributing retrofitting surveys for the Ministry of Housing, Communities & Local Government (MHCLG) that will directly impact national decisions. By sharing these surveys with our members, we provided critical insights into our industry's practical needs, helping shape policies that reflect real-world challenges. Additionally, our response to DEFRA's call for evidence on waste management allowed us to highlight specific needs and propose sustainable solutions, ensuring the demolition sector's voice was heard in policy discussions.

Global Collaboration for the Future

On the international stage, our participation in the European Demolition Association (EDA) Think Tank showcased our commitment to innovation and sustainability. On the panel we discussed with Belgian, Austrian and French demolition associations the importance and intricacies of resource audits before works and renovation works. These forward-thinking discussions focused on the future of demolition, offering us the opportunity to contribute ideas that address global challenges while promoting sustainable practices.

Supporting Brownfield Site Development

Domestically, we advocated the government's plans for brownfield site development, a critical initiative to reduce urban sprawl and revitalise previously developed land. Through the federation's advocacy, supported by influential leaders in the built environment, we have successfully secured £68 million for brownfield site redevelopment—promoting sustainability while creating valuable opportunities for demolition contractors.

Commitment to Responsible Practices

Sustainability remained a central theme in our 2024 presentations and NFDC Talks. We emphasised sustainable demolition practices, providing our members with actionable strategies to reduce their carbon footprints and adopt eco-friendly approaches. Our collaboration with the Alliance for Sustainable Building Programme (ASBP) further demonstrated our commitment to reducing emissions and promoting sustainability across the demolition and construction industries.

Shaping a More Sustainable Future

As we close 2024, we are proud of what we have accomplished. From policy influence to international collaboration, we have championed sustainability into every facet of our work. These achievements reflect our unwavering commitment to leading the demolition industry toward a more sustainable and responsible future. Together, we will continue to build for tomorrow while protecting the world we share today.

I'm inspired by the tangible steps we've taken—whether it's simplifying waste processes, shaping policies, or collaborating globally—to make a lasting difference for our industry and the environment."

WELLBEING

Promoting Wellbeing Across the Demolition Industry.

In 2024, we made substantial progress in raising awareness, fostering open conversations, and creating actionable steps to support individuals' physical and mental health across the demolition sector. These initiatives highlight our ongoing commitment to building a healthier, more supportive industry for all.

Raising Awareness, Saving Lives

This year, we undertook several campaigns aimed at promoting awareness of critical health issues. One of the focuses was melanoma awareness, a significant concern for those working outdoors and exposed to the elements. Through educational campaigns, we provided guidance on prevention, early detection, and the importance of skin protection. These efforts aim to reduce the risk of this potentially life-threatening condition within our workforce.

We also championed awareness of other health challenges. During Prostate Cancer Awareness Month, we emphasised the importance of regular check-ups and early detection, encouraging our members to take proactive steps for their health. Similarly, we raised Breast Cancer Awareness, delivering key information on prevention and early diagnosis, while fostering a supportive environment for discussions around these sensitive but crucial topics.

Breaking the Stigma, Building Support

Rarely is mental health given dedicated focus within the industry, yet data-driven insights are essential in driving meaningful change. As part of this commitment, the NFDC conducted its first-ever mental health research survey, providing valuable insights into the psychological challenges faced by operatives. Findings revealed that while mental health literacy is high and awareness is increasing, distress levels remain significant. While conversations are helping to break down stigma, workplace action is essential to making a real impact. In addition, to this research, the NFDC proudly supported the HSE Working Minds initiative, reinforcing its commitment to raising awareness and promoting mental well-being across the sector.

We encouraged our members to participate in conducting specific mental health assessments for their teams, underlining the importance of addressing workplace stressors and fostering resilience. This initiative is not just about data collection—it is about laying the groundwork for meaningful change. Moving forward, our goal is to use these findings to develop tailored strategies that address mental health challenges unique to the demolition sector.

Our collaboration with organisations like Andy's Men's Club and the Lighthouse Club Help Line provided additional avenues of mental health and wellbeing support. These partnerships ensured that individuals have access to resources, helplines, and safe spaces to seek help when needed.

Promoting Positivity: Events and Campaigns for Awareness

To combat seasonal challenges like Blue Monday—considered the most depressing day of the year, especially for our industry, with post-holiday blues, cold UK weather, and demolition output at its annual lowest—we organised activities that promoted positivity and mental health awareness.

For Time to Talk Day, we facilitated discussions, encouraging members and operatives alike to have open and honest conversations about mental health. These moments reminded us that addressing mental health is a task to complete and an ongoing effort to foster understanding and support.

In line with this, the NFDC supported Men's Health Week by launching informational campaigns and sharing online resources. This initiative encouraged men to take proactive steps toward their physical and mental health, addressing common barriers to seeking support.

Building a Culture of Wellbeing

While we are proud of what we have achieved in 2024, we know that well-being is an ongoing journey. The NFDC is committed to expanding these initiatives and ensuring that the physical and mental health of everyone in the demolition industry remains a priority.

In the coming year, we will focus on interpreting the results of the mental health survey, collaborating with experts to develop actionable strategies, and continuing to support our members in implementing effective wellbeing practices. Through education, partnerships, and open dialogue, we aim to create an industry culture where everyone feels valued and supported.

Together, we want to build an industry that thrives on innovation, hard work, compassion, and care. The well-being of our workforce is the foundation for a stronger, more resilient demolition sector, and the NFDC is dedicated to leading this charge.

COMMUNITY

Making a Difference Beyond Demolition.

2024 was a testament to the power of collaboration and giving back. Guided by a mission to strengthen connections and create opportunities, we focused on initiatives that not only supported those in need but also inspired positive change.

The NFDC members are going the extra mile! Proudly participating in the London Marathon through the charities we support.

Charity in Action

In 2024, the NFDC demonstrated its extraordinary commitment to community support by raising a staggering total of £203,000 for a wide variety of charitable causes. These contributions underscore the Federation’s dedication to making a tangible and meaningful difference across the UK.

A key highlight of the year was the significant donation to the Salford Foundation Trust, supporting vital community initiatives. Other standout contributions included The Evie Dove Foundation, Niemann-Pick UK, and “In Sue’s Name.” The NFDC also supported MacMillan Cancer Support, the Snowdon Trust, and St. Peter’s Hospice, among many other worthy organisations.

The donations covered a wide range of causes, including health and well-being, food security, children’s and family support, and community reintegration programmes. Notable efforts included contributions to Dementia UK, Francis House Family Trust, and Crisis, demonstrating NFDC’s dedication to addressing diverse needs within society.

This monumental fundraising achievement reflects the incredible generosity and collaborative spirit of NFDC’s members. Together, they have not only supported numerous charities but also shown the immense impact an industry can have when united by a shared purpose.

Looking ahead, NFDC is committed to building on these successes, ensuring 2025 will continue the legacy of giving back to the communities that inspire and support the Federation.

Building Futures

Beyond fundraising, 2024 saw continued efforts to provide opportunities for those seeking a fresh start. Through initiatives supporting ex-offenders and ex-military personnel, we helped individuals reintegrate into society by equipping them with the skills and pathways to build meaningful careers. These programs reflect our belief in second chances and our dedication to reducing unemployment while maximising the potential of every individual.

Inspiring the Next Generation

Through school visits, career talks, and hands-on learning experiences, we have introduced young people to the world of demolition, highlighting the diverse career opportunities within the industry. By fostering curiosity and providing valuable insights, we aim to inspire the next generation to consider a future in demolition.

Looking Back with Pride

As we reflect on 2024, the collective efforts of our members, partners, and supporters have created lasting impacts across communities. From fundraising to fostering opportunity, the year’s achievements exemplify the spirit of collaboration that lies at the heart of everything we do.

Looking ahead to 2025, we remain committed to strengthening communities and inspiring positive change, confident that together, we can continue to make a difference.

“Our concept of Community is about more than just giving back—it’s about creating meaningful change and inspiring hope. By supporting vital charities, driving educational opportunities, and fostering connections, we demonstrate the profound impact of collaboration and a shared purpose in shaping brighter futures.”

We celebrate a milestone with 2024 Memorandum and Articles of Association Update.

Last year was a great year of achievements. The successful completion of our 2024 Memorandum and Articles of Association was a significant milestone achieved after two decades since the last update. This accomplishment represents a landmark in our journey toward modernising governance and aligning with the evolving needs of the demolition industry.

This initiative was no small feat, requiring meticulous planning, collaboration, and expertise. The dedication and leadership of John Lynch, our President, Duncan Rudall the NFDC CEO, and Lesley Ransome, the NFDC CFO and were instrumental in overcoming challenges and steering the project to completion. Their unwavering commitment to this monumental task ensured that the updated the Articles reflect the Federation's current aspirations and future goals.

The 2024 Memorandum and Articles of Association establish a robust foundation for transparency, inclusivity, and operational efficiency. They outline the rules on how the NFDC is run as a business, offering essential guidance to officers from both long-standing and newer member companies.

This achievement underscores the strength and resilience of the NFDC as a united organisation. We thank everyone involved in this milestone project and look forward to leveraging these updated principles to foster growth, innovation, and success within the demolition community for years to come.

World Demolition Awards

The NFDC reflects on a remarkable year at the World Demolition Summit 2024.

The successful update of our Memorandum and Articles of Association marks a significant step forward for NFDC. This milestone reflects our dedication to modernising governance, empowering our members, and ensuring the Federation remains aligned with the evolving needs of the demolition industry."

Lesley Ransome
NFDC Chief Financial Officer

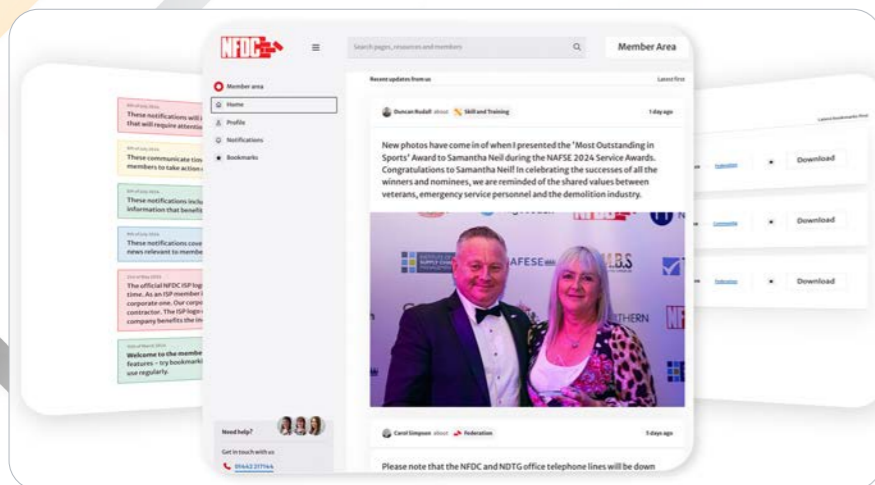

We are proud to have played a pivotal role in advancing the demolition industry, highlighted by our support for the prestigious World Demolition Summit 2024, hosted by Demolition and Recycling International (D&R).

This landmark event brought together global industry leaders, experts, and professionals to share insights, celebrate innovation, and recognise excellence in demolition. Representing the NFDC on this world stage were our CEO, Duncan Rudall, and CFO, Lesley Ransome, who engaged with international peers and championed the achievements of the UK demolition sector.

The summit featured a vibrant networking reception and a day of impactful discussions on major global demolition projects. The World Demolition Awards, held on the final evening, was a highlight of the year. The NFDC is immensely proud of our members who were nominated for their exceptional work, including Thompsons of Prudhoe, ERITH Contractors Limited, Brown and Mason Group Limited, MGL Group, Epiroc, and Colemans.

These members have made significant contributions to both the UK and global demolition industries, setting benchmarks for excellence and innovation. Together, we celebrate their achievements and look forward to building on these successes in 2025.

DEVELOPING SKILLS FOR THE FUTURE IN DEMOLITION:

NDTG'S ACHIEVEMENTS

At the National Demolition Training Group (NDTG), we believe that quality training is the foundation of a skilled, safe, and thriving demolition industry. Throughout 2024, we continued to break new ground in education, certification, and workforce development, ensuring that demolition professionals at all levels received industry-leading training and support.

TRAINING THE DEMOLITION INDUSTRY

Breaking Down Barriers: Ex-Offender Initiative

One of the most significant initiatives launched this year was the “Breaking Down Barriers to Your New Career” Ex-offender Programme, in collaboration with the Ministry of Justice (MoJ) and the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP). This training programme focuses on reassimilating ex-offenders into society by providing them with career opportunities and employment in demolition.

environment in 2017, the demolition industry has faced challenges in meeting the demand for qualified assessors. This year, NFDC CEO Duncan Rudall took decisive action, leveraging strategic industry connections and collaborating with NOCN to secure a provider capable of delivering the EPA. By identifying and sourcing highly knowledgeable professionals to become assessors, this initiative has eased pressure on the Demolition Trailblazer Apprenticeship, ensuring a smoother completion process.

Strengthening Apprenticeship Pathways

Since the government's introduction of End Point Assessments (EPA) for all apprenticeships in the built

With a growing pool of skilled assessors, NDTG is set to run the programme more efficiently than ever in 2025, helping more operatives successfully complete their apprenticeships and transition into site-ready roles.

Advancing Certification & Qualification Standards

As a member of the CSCS Alliance, The NFDC has supported the implementation of the CSCS SmartCheck app, which replaced Go Smart. This upgrade marked a significant step forward in verifying qualifications across the built environment and all card schemes under the CSCS Alliance banner. The enhanced system simplifies the verification process, strengthening compliance and security within the demolition workforce.

Additionally, we saw continued growth in apprenticeships and NVQ programmes, supporting the next generation of demolition professionals. By refining our training pathways, we ensured that learners gained both theoretical knowledge and hands-on experience, reinforcing high standards in safety and competence.

A MILESTONE IN DEMOLITION PLANNING

The 2024 edition of the NFDC Talks sessions achieved great success, emphasising the critical value of industry collaboration and the exchange of expertise in demolition. In partnership with the Health & Safety Executive (HSE) and the Institute of Demolition Engineers (IDE), the NFDC hosted three engaging events across the UK in Glasgow, Bristol, and London.

These sessions provided clients with critical insights into the key considerations for safe and efficient demolition projects. Attendees gained a comprehensive understanding of pre-contract planning, contractual clarity, and the vital role of selecting a competent contractor. Additionally, the talks emphasised exceeding the minimum regulatory standards set by CDM regulations to achieve exceptional results in demolition projects.

The events featured industry-leading speakers from the HSE, IDE and NFDC, whose expertise inspired attendees to elevate their approach to demolition planning. Participants praised the sessions for their practical advice, valuable networking opportunities, and actionable takeaways.

The enthusiastic feedback and meaningful discussions throughout the events underscored the value of these initiatives in driving higher standards across the demolition sector.

Due to the overwhelming success of the 2024 NFDC Talks, plans are already underway for a new series of events in 2025. These upcoming sessions will build on past achievements, continuing to support clients and contractors in raising the bar for safety, compliance, and excellence in the demolition industry.

The NFDC remains committed to empowering the demolition community and looks forward to another successful round of NFDC Talks in 2025. Stay connected for updates as we prepare to deliver another impactful series of events.
